

Successful event for the Geosatis Team at CEP, Frankfurt

The Ninth Conference of the European Confederation of Probation (CEP) was held from the 11th to the 13th of December in Frankfurt, Germany. The conference, which takes place every two years, allows its members (from 34 countries) to discuss on the topic of electronic monitoring of prisoners. This year, 220 visitors attended the event in the German city.

Geosatis, a Swiss company active in this area, is one of three official sponsors of this event. As the sole manufacturer of electronic monitoring equipment in Europe, Geosatis has been repeatedly awarded for their innovative work. An electronic bracelet of a new kind, indestructible, made the buzz amongst public probation professionals.

"The feedback has been very positive," says Reshad Moussa, doing business development for the company. "Our products have aroused the curiosity of visitors; they were surprised by the lightness of our electronic bracelet." A visitor even left the booth while wearing the bracelet – forgetting that he was wearing one within minutes.

For its first participation in such an event, Geosatis is reaping the fruits of its work and draws a positive balance: the many contacts on the stand give the company a new visibility in the market for electronic monitoring. Specifically, Geosatis received requests regarding future pilot tests, as well as information regarding several tenders that will come out sometime in 2015.
